Steelworkers End Arguments; Plea Urges Benefits

NEW YORK, Aug. 25—(AP)—The CIO United Steelworkers, seeking a fourth-round wage boost and other benefits, winds up its case today before a presidential fact-finding board.

Then there will be three days of rebuttal by the steel firms—tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday. The three-man board then will write its recommendations.

In arguments yesterday, the union stressed its demands for pension plans and social insurance paid for by the industry.

Murray Latimer, the union's pension and insurance expert, called the companies' estimates of pension costs "inconsistent, misleading, contradictory and exaggerated."

He said the union-proposed plan, calling for a $125-monthly pension for workers on retirement at 65; would not be prohibitive in cost, as claimed by the industry.

Estimate Cost
An 11.23-cent hourly contribution by the companies for each worker would meet the costs, Latimer contended.

This figure is included in the 30-cent hourly package sought by the union. The package also includes a 12½ cent wage increase.

Latimer said Enders Voorhees, of U. S. Steel, had largely accepted the union's estimates on pensions, despite claims by other firms that the estimates were too low.

However, the witness challenged figures given by Voorhees on the average pensions now paid by U. S. Steel. Voorhees said these pensions average $44 a month.

The union has claimed the average pension for a U. S. Steel worker retiring at 65 is about $5 a month.

Latimer said Voorhees' figure included the big pensions paid to executives, but did not include the large percentage of workers who get nothing. The union has said that Voorhees' own annual pension will be $70,323.

Answer Stephens
The union witness answered a contention of John A. Stephens, a U. S. Steel vice president, that employee contributions are necessary to "discourage absenteeism, malingering and other abuses."

Latimer said Stephens and other industry spokesmen had failed to "cite a single instance where malingering and absenteeism or 'other abuses' resulted from a Turn to STEELWORKERS, Pg 10

BRITISH MAY CUT SERVICES

Medical Plan May Flop Unless Financial Meetings Pay Off

LONDON, Aug. 25—(AP)—Britain may have to limit her social services if next month's monetary talks in Washington flop, according to an informant close to the Labor government.

The informant, who refused to be identified, said Labor leaders might have to start retrenchment by dropping the government's free medical services, if the dollar-pound talks fail.

Britain's social services, together with food subsidies, cost one quarter of the country's whole annual budget of $12,000,000,000.

Britons now can call on doctors without paying fees under the 13-month-old national health service, though each pays up to six shillings, eight pence weekly (1.33) to help support it.

May Change
If the Washington parley fails, the informant said, British leaders may have to consider having each person pay a shilling (20 cents) for each visit.

He explained that the calls

Superintendent of Friends Reports On Year's Work

Rev. Claude A. Roane of Alliance, general superintendent of Ohio Yearly meeting of Friends, traveled 15,348 miles in his visits to churches in Ohio, Michigan, Virginia, North Carolina and Iowa, which make up the organization, in the past year.

This was revealed in the Wednesday morning session of the Yearly meeting at Damascus when his annual report was read.

Rev. Roane visited 57 meetings, preached 37 sermons and sent out 1,251 pieces of mail.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Smith, Damascus, who assisted in extension activities, traveled 20,000 miles and conducted 13 revivals. He preached 175 sermons.

Workers in the new meetings being opened, who gave talks at the morning session were William Crouch of Oswego, N. Y.; Herbert Burch of Celina; Kenneth Headland of Boston Heights, formerly of Salem; Rev. Pearl McLaughlin of Brevster and James Morris of Broadview Heights, Cleveland.

The Hughesville, Lairdsville and Williamsport, Pa., churches, which have been affiliated with Damascus Quarterly meeting, composed of Friends churches in this section, were upon their request, granted the privilege of forming their own quarterly meeting.

Rev. Byron L. Osborn, dean of Cleveland Bible college; Rev. Joseph E. Watkins, pastor of the Greentown, Ind., Friends church and Edgar Phelps of Barborton had part in a symposium arranged for the annual meeting.

TOO MANY CANDIDATES TO BEAT TAFT MAY BE DEMOCRATS TROUBLE

By ROBERT A. WIENER

COLUMBUS, Aug. 25—(AP)—Ohio Democrats, once faced with a potential dearth of candidates to oppose Sen. Robert A. Taft next year, today had an added starter to the race—former Sen. James W. Huffman.

They also had a firm statement from State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson that he would not quit the race to discourage primary opposition to Murray D. Lincoln, head of the Ohio Farm Bureau Insurance companies.

As things now stand, two men, Ferguson and William L. White, Newark businessman, are avowed candidates for the Democrats' senatorial nomination in 1950. A half dozen other prominent Democrats have been mentioned as possible candidates for the seat now held by Taft, Cincinnati Republican.

Huffman's possible entry into the political scene was disclosed yesterday in Juneau, Alaska. On his first visit to the territory since 1919, he told a newsman:

Huffman Speaks
"Some one is going to run against Bob Taft next fall in Ohio and it might be me."

There had been little indication in party circles here that Huffman, defeated for the senate by former Governor John W. Bricker when he ran the first time in 1946, would be a candidate. The Columbus attorney was appointed to the upper house in 1945 by Gov. Frank J. Lausche during Lausche's first administration. He succeeded Harold R. Burton, who moved up to the U. S. Supreme court.

Ferguson's statement that "no one is going to crowd me out of the race" was made yesterday after American Federation of Labor leaders, in convention here, said they were attempting to discourage primary opposition to Lincoln.

Told of the movement, the state auditor declared:

"No one is going to crowd me out of the race for the nomination. I'm the guy who's going to defeat Mr. Taft in 1950."

"It won't do them any good to put pressure on me," he said. "I'm in the race to stay, and I'll

WILL OPEN JUNGLE SLOTS IN COURT

WARREN, Aug. 25—(AP)—Over 100 Jungle Inn slot machines will be opened today by court order, emptied and their contents turned over to the clerk of courts.

Common Pleas Judge Lynn B. Griffith ordered the action yesterday, appointing two Warren bank officials to count the coins. The Jungle Inn was stormed Aug. 13 by state liquor agents and the slot machines were seized.

Twenty of the gambling casino's employees were arrested there. Their trial date is set for Sept. 6.

Yesterday, John Farah, alleged Jungle Inn operator, and Albert Sudetic, an aide, pleaded innocent to assault and battery on two Youngstown Vindicator newsmen. Hearings will be after Sept. 6.

Three Cars Damaged In Traffic Collisions

Three cars were damaged in two auto accidents on city streets last night, police reported.

Cars operated by Harry J. Webb of 312 W. Wilson st. and John N. Rosta of Campbell collied at the corner of Wilson and S. Ellsworth at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Webb was heading east on Wilson when Rosta made a left turn off Ellsworth onto Wilson. The left rear fender on the Rosta car caught the rear bumper of Webb's car, tearing the fender off the first car.

A tractor-trailer driven by William Davis of 55 Bank st. ran into a parked car owned by Ralph Floor of 292½ S. Broadway in front of the latter's residence. The impact knocked Floor's car up over the curb, damaging the trunk and bumper.

Davis said he was forced to hit the parked vehicle, in order to avoid another moving car.

Says He Will Wed Ingrid Bergman

ROME, Aug. 25—(INS)—Italian Film Director Roberto Rossellini erased today all doubts that he plans to marry Ingrid Bergman.

Asked by International News Service, "will you marry Ingrid Bergman?" Rossellini nodded and, knitting his brow in concentration, replied:

"Of course I intend to."

Miss Bergman, present at the interview, sat quietly knitting. Rossellini did all the talking. He said that "as far as I know" Miss Bergman's attorneys had not yet filed papers for her divorce from Dr. Peter Lindstrom.

Nor did Rossellini know, he said, where the divorce papers would be filed.

"It may be Sweden or Italy," he guessed. "I don't know."

Rossellini would not commit himself when asked when he and the Swedish star would be married.

Looking fondly at Miss Bergman, he confessed:

"It is easy to fall in love with Ingrid Bergman—but it must be quite a blow to lose her."

Youth Week "Scotch-a-Bike" day drew 182 Salem bicycle owners and their bikes to Centennial park yesterday, when a Junior Chamber of Commerce committee taped Scotch-lite to the fenders of the bikes. The Scotch-lite serves as a reflector of cars' headlights and gives the riders additional protection for night-riding. The tape was furnished by the Columbiana County Motor club. Frank Diehl headed the Jaycee committee handling this project.

Tonight the Youth Week event will be the three softball games at Centennial park. The first, between two Mickey McGuire league teams, will get underway at 6 p. m. Class B teams will meet in the second game and the A & P girls and the Red Caps are matched in the final contest.

A street dance on Broadway between State and Pershing is set for Friday from 8 to 11 p. m., with the Salem musicians local furnishing the music.

Maragon Brought Them
Committee Counsel William P. Rogers asked: "Why did they come to you?"

Major said: "Mr. Maragon brought 'em in. The were customers, Mr. Rogers, and we were looking for customers."

Rogers: "What did they want to do?"

Major: "Send them to the men who could sell them some goods."

Then Rogers said that Maragon, when he testified behind closed doors last month, stated that he never talked to Major about trying to arrange purchases.

Whereupon Major said sharply: "I just got through telling you he did, Mr. Rogers."

So that was another thing the committee wanted to ask Maragon about. Rogers said the records indicate it was apparently the only case where people Maragon represented at War Assets got a contract. And Major said Trans-America lost $10,000 on the deal in the long run.

MARAGON NEXT TO TESTIFY IN HEARINGS

Call Washington Man To Tell of Activity On Government Deals

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25—(AP)—Senate five percent investigator summoned John Maragon, controversial man-about-Washington, to the witness stand today.

First, however, the special subcommittee conducting the investigation planned to dig further into Maragon's past. The group called other witnesses to be quizzed about that.

Members of the committee said they had scores of questions to fire at Maragon, who used to have free access to the White House—and who still lists Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, President Truman's Army aide, as his good friend.

Vaughan Next
Vaughan, another central figure in the inquiry, now is scheduled to testify tomorrow.

The investigators kept their fingers crossed about answers from Maragon. The said privately they understood he was in no mood to talk about some things.

"But we definitely are going to call him today," said Senator Hoey (D-N.C.), chairman of the group checking on whether improper influence has figured in the handling of government business.

Maragon is a Greek-American who once shined shoes in Kansas City, and who during years in Washington came to know many top government officials by their first names. His own name has bobbed up frequently at the senate inquiry.

At today's session, in advance of calling Maragon, the committee wanted to delve further into a matter that turned up yesterday.

Joe F. Major, a War Assets Administration employee, testified then that Maragon once brought to him three men who were in the market for some surplus government property. They represented Trans-America Traders, Inc.

Major said: "Mr. Maragon brought 'em in. The were customers, Mr. Rogers, and we were looking for customers."

Rogers: "What did they want to do?"

Major: "Send them to the men who could sell them some goods."

Then Rogers said that Maragon, when he testified behind closed doors last month, stated that he never talked to Major about trying to arrange purchases.

Whereupon Major said sharply: "I just got through telling you he did, Mr. Rogers."

So that was another thing the committee wanted to ask Maragon about. Rogers said the records indicate it was apparently the only case where people Maragon represented at War Assets got a contract. And Major said Trans-America lost $10,000 on the deal in the long run.

Hurts Those From Areas To Be Cut

Some Congressmen Complain Over Projected Slice In Personnel

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25—(AP)—Members of congress found themselves squeezed today between a military economy drive many of them had demanded and the outraged cries of constituents affected by the proposed cuts.

A typical example was offered by a western house member. He said he has been deluged up to now with letters urging him to vote for cuts in appropriations.

Now, he said, the same people are complaining bitterly against military cutbacks in his district.

The predicament resulted from Secretary of Defense Johnson's announcement yesterday that the armed forces plan to fire 135,000 of their 905,000 civilian employees, while returning 12,073 reserve officers from active to inactive status.

Aims At $200,000,000
That program aims at a $200,000,000 saving during the fiscal year which started July 1 and savings of $500,000,000 a year thereafter. It would help bring next year's military budget down to $13,400,000,000. The 1949 budget totals $14,900,000,000.

Johnson said the cuts are those proposed by the three armed services themselves. They will result in the closing of about 50 defense installations and the slimming down of a number of others.

Congressmen whose home districts are involved got the low-down from Johnson yesterday. Many of them complained bitterly. Others approved.

"It depends," said the western lawmaker wryly, "on whose ox is being gored."

Rep. Taber (R-N.Y.), a leader of the house economy bloc, said his only complaint is that the cuts aren't larger.

Rep. Rankin (D-Miss.) called Air Force reductions "absolutely unjustified" and said the military is following the pre-Pearl Harbor policy of too much cutting-down.

Backed 100 Percent
Rep. Miller (R-Neb.) backed the reduction proposal "100 percent" and said there should be more cutting in other agencies.

Some critics said the program outlined by Johnson was false economy.

Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) asserted that closing of the Long Beach, Calif., Naval shipyard actually would cost money because of the expense of mothballing it and reactivating it later.

Senator Tobey (R-NH.) said the proposed saving of $100,000,000 a day by disposing of 135,000 jobs would create "commiseration and misery in that number of homes in the country."

Several members, including Senator Bridges (R-NH.) and Rep. Sikes (D-Fla.), questioned the wisdom of cutting down on submarine programs at a time when Russia is reported actively building U-boats.

WANT MORE ON MEMO WRITTEN BY NAVY MAN

Suspended Official Will Be Called To Explain His Side of B-36 Story

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25—(AP)—House members called today for more testimony from Cedric Worth, suspended Navy department official who acknowledged he wrote the "anonymous memo" which stirred up an investigation of the Air Force bomber program.

Worth has been serving as a special assistant to Undersecretary of the Navy Dan Kimball. He was suspended yesterday from his $8,500-a-year job. Kimball also was called as a witness before the house armed services committee, at his own request.

The whole situation was embarrassing to the defense department in its efforts to smooth out friction between the supposedly unified Army, Navy and Air Force. The Navy and Air Force in particular have had disagreements, mainly over strategic bombing assignments.

Is Writer
The 49-year-old Worth, a one-time news reporter, scenario writer and Republican party speech writer, was unmasked yesterday as the author of a memorandum which Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) said reflected on the integrity of high government officials. The memorandum implied that the Air Force's billion dollar B-36 bomber program was a mistake, deliberately fostered by politics.

Following the disclosure, Worth was suspended from his post by Secretary of the Navy Francis P. Matthews, pending a departmental investigation.

Several hours later Kimball issued a statement contradicting Worth's testimony that he had talked with Kimball about the document which spurred the house into ordering a probe of the B-36.

Under oath Worth told the committee he had discussed the matter with Kimball four or five days ago.

"Mr. Worth did not tell me he was author of the document three or four days ago or any other time," said Kimball.

Worth was produced at the hearing by Secretary of Air Symington after Rep. Van Zandt (R-Pa.) demanded that the author be called before the committee.

It was Van Zandt who set off the B-36 inquiry with a house speech in May in which he quoted from the Worth document.

Five hundred and fifty-three Mullins Corp. employees stepped before the county mobile X-ray unit Wednesday. A total of 842 Salem industrial workers has been X-rayed in the first three days here and the unit will be at Mullins today and Friday, according to Miss Lillian Schroeder, executive secretary of the Columbiana County Health League.

The unit will be at the Lisbon fairgrounds during the county fair and will return to Salem on Oct. 28, when the free X-ray will be available for the general public on the second floor of the Ohio Edison building.

All Juniors and Seniors in High schools throughout the county will have the opportunity to have chest X-rays in the last week in October. The exact date on which the unit will visit Salem High school has not been set, Miss Schroeder said.

The Issue Is Official

It has been apparent for a long time that organized labor's main goal for the next year will be the attempt to defeat U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft in 1950. The A. F. L. annual convention in Columbus only makes it official.

Attitude of the union leaders is summed up in press statements attributed to William Green, president of the A. F. L. He is quoted as saying he hopes the Democrats will nominate a good man but regardless of the nominee, his organization will still be out to "get" Taft.

There is not much statesmanship in the policy or the statement but there is a clear-cut issue and a challenge to all who do not go along with the ideas of the union leaders. The Taft foes are working hard and early. Those who admire his sound, clear, vigorous leadership have their work cut out for them. The noise and fury of the anti-Taft drive will not stampede sound-thinking Ohioans when election rolls around.

Flaming Woodlands

Forest fires raging out of control in widely separated parts of the nation emphasize the urgency for care on the part of all who visit the wooded areas of the country.

Ohio is seldom regarded as forest state but trees are one of its valuable aspects. A fire in Ohio's hardwood forest is not the same terrifying spectacle as one in the pine and spruce areas where entire trees are enveloped in roaring flame. Nevertheless, it is destructive.

Dry fall weather is the time when fires are most prevalent. It also is a favorite time for picnicking and for tramping through the woods. Picnickers should remember that in the southern half of the state they must have permission from the fire warden before they start a campfire. Elsewhere they should observe the utmost caution. A few fires are started by lightning. Most of the others are the result of man's carelessness.

Only a perverted criminal would set fire to a farmer's barn but many would thoughtlessly toss a lighted cigarette along the roadside where it may start a field or forest fire.

The Old British Pluck

The world takes time out today from its toils and its worries to applaud the pluck of an English schoolboy. Philip Mickman, 18, is added to the list of those who swam the English channel.

He was in the water nearly 24 hours. Others have swum the channel in less than half that time. This doesn't win him many laurels for swimming but it gains him plaudits for his pluck and determination.

Greatest obstacle in the channel swim is the cold and choppy water and Philip refused to let this whip him. The world will be no better off in any material way for his exploit but it can always use an example in courage and determination.

If he gave us a lesson in the traditional British do-or-die spirit, American Shirley May France gave us a lesson in good American sportsmanship. She must have been disappointed that an other channel aspirant beat her to the crossing but she didn't show it. Instead she was one of the first to congratulate the English lad and the reports say she did it as though she meant it from the bottom of her heart. That, too, is good.

Poor Year For Junkies

Junketing is an old if not honorable institution in congress. Members who want a pleasant vacation arrange for the government to send them somewhere at government expense to "study conditions." Usually the conditions which need studying are someplace where the weather is pleasant, the scenery interesting and the problem not arduous enough to take up too much of their time.

Many congressmen, especially younger members, now are clamoring for a trip to Uncle Sam's expense. One group thinks the oil situation in Saudi Arabia needs investigation. Another wants to look into the operation of European airlines, necessitating a pleasant flight to all major capitals.

Speaker Sam Rayburn and Republican Floor Leader Joe Martin are both standing firm against junkets this year. They are having too much trouble already in keeping a quorum in sweltering Washington during the summer.

Many congressmen are very unhappy about it. They feel that someone has done them wrong. The leaders have been curt in reminding them that they were elected to transact the nation's business and must stay on the job until it is finished. That's rather a quaint idea for Washington.

While there are excellent prospects for carrying out ambitious plans and projects of vast importance, with definite hope of counting upon solid cooperation from those in influential positions, yet there may be encountered a competitive spirit, with jealousy, opposition, conflicts or other manifestations of non-support or enmity, probably with a personal note of competition. Meet such with amiability, complacency and tolerance rather than a show of temper or ill-will. Thus you will win against rancor and opposition.

For The Birthday

Those whose birthday it is while having splendid prospects for inaugurating programs of more than passing ambition, with some touches of dramatic, domestic or social advantage, possibly having exciting reactions on the home, love or professional life, yet there are likely to be conflicts, jealousy, and enmity, with prospects of such being aggravated by hasty words, unkind or intemperate action, born of bad temper, want of courtesy or consideration. In aggravating circumstances maintain calm to avert loss, domestic friction, personal hurts. Poise and consideration could win out.

A child born on this day, while ambitious, talented and moderately successful, may complicate its affairs by inciting to jealousy, reprisals, and with personal miseries or hurts. Maintain composure, tact.

By DR. HERMAN BUNDESON

BABIES are far more subject to diarrhea than grownups. Usually such a condition is due to an infection, either of the bowel itself or in some other part of the body, such as the ears or tonsils. Even a cold may produce diarrhea in a baby.

In these cases the diarrhea is likely to be mild and not a great deal of treatment is necessary. With a severe infection, such as a middle ear disorder, the diarrhea may become threatening and more intensive treatment is required.

Common Cold

In every case, the first thing to do is to attempt to determine the cause. In a simple diarrhea, such as comes with a common cold, the baby should be kept clean as possible, and, if breast fed, the breast feeding should be continued. Sometimes, giving the baby a few ounces of water just before the breast feeding is of benefit. Now and then it may be well to omit one or two feedings, and to offer water in its place. Another treatment is to give the baby a few ounces of boiled skimmed milk, before the breast feeding. However, diarrhea of this type is unusual in a breast-fed baby.

In an artificially-fed baby, the doctor often finds it a good plan to dilute the formula, removing most of the fat and lessening the amount of sugar. The milk should be boiled for from five to ten minutes. If the baby is receiving fruits and vegetables, these should be stopped for a few days. Ripe bananas and scraped apples are sometimes useful in the treatment. Weak, unsweetened tea is frequently very helpful.

Certain drugs are also of value but these, of course, must always be used under the direction of a doctor. Paregoric sometimes aids in decreasing the number of bowel movements. Pectin and kaolin are other preparations sometimes found helpful in the treatment of mild diarrhea, although they have no specific action against the cause.

Eliminate Infection
In all cases every effort should be made to eliminate infection in the ears or tonsils if it is responsible for the condition. This may call for penicillin or one of the sulfonamide drugs. Here again the doctor will decide what is necessary.

Diarrhea, no matter how mild, should never be neglected in a baby, as there is always the chance that it may develop into a severe condition.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
G. B.: I am thirty-one years old. My fingers turn real white, then they get blueish. What would cause this?

Answer: These symptoms may occur in a disorder known as Raynaud's Disease. A physician should be consulted as soon as possible concerning this disease. In mild forms, it never goes beyond the stage of that frequently seen in chilblains. The hands and toes only may be affected. The slightest exposure in winter causes blueness which is followed by redness, swelling, and aching when the hands become warm.

When the condition is severe it begins with pains in the fingers and numbness and tingling; then the fingers become white and cold. Within an hour or so, they get blue and, within a day or two, the blueness gets worse and blisters may form on the ends of the fingers. Gangrene sets in and the gangrenous parts gradually separate. When the condition reaches this stage, it is very dangerous. This is a condition in which there is a disor-

Fines To Be Levied
For Dumping Rubbish

LISBON, Aug. 25 — Persons guilty of dumping rubbish or refuse of any kind along county or township roads are liable to a $50 fine and a 30-day jail sentence, Representative Clarence L. Wetzel advised county and township officials today. The bill prohibiting dumping of rubbish including junk, tin cans, or refuse was passed at the recent session of the general assembly, and guilty parties are subject to the full extent of the law.

Wetzel states that he has been besieged with inquiries with regard to Senate Bill 210 which would have increased teachers pensions. The bill passed the senate and also the house insurance committee and was then forwarded to the rules committee, Wetzel said, adding that Governor Lausche would not permit it to come out of that committee and therefore never reached the floor of the house.

School Starts Sept. 6

LISBON, Aug. 25 — The fall term of the rural schools of Columbiana county will begin Tuesday, Sept. 6, County Supt. W. E. Roberts, announced today and stated there are still 10 elementary teaching vacancies to be filled in the 26 schools before the opening of the term. In addition one elementary principal, an English-Spanish instructor and five vocal teachers are also needed, Roberts stated.

Inez Robb Finds 'Beef' Among West Virginians

By INEZ ROBB
CHARLESTON, W. Va.—(INS)—The citizens of West Virginia, a proud and prosperous people, have several righteous beefs against us outsiders who come here expecting the population to be composed entirely of hillbillies who have a git-tar in one hand and a still in the back forty. In particular, they are no longer amused by two standard queries which have worn thin in recent years. They are kinda huffy nowadays with persons who say: (1) "Take off your shoes, Joe, and be comfortable. You don't need to wear 'em just because I'm here." and (2) "Where's your clay pipe, Granny." For the most part, West Virginians have been wearing shoes for two-three generations now, and it is the exceptional citizen who still walks as if his feet hurt in leather. Switched Long Ago And in the second instance, I am told by indignant acquaintances, West Virginia belles switched from Prince Albert and cut plug to coffin nails a full generation ago. Corn pipes are now kept in stock mainly for the tourist trade. As for the still in the pasture, there may be no excuse for it in other sections of this state. But the people of Charleston are almost impelled to brush their teeth in home-made bourbon. Turn on a faucet in this town marked "gold" and what comes gushing forth is eau de chlorine. It is as repugnant and generally repulsive as the health-giving waters served up as cure-alls in Europe and American spas. I have always felt that such waters are labelled healthy because if you can swallow a glass of 'em and keep 'em down, it certainly proves you are healthy. The drinking water here is so generally offensive that I am surprised that some far-sighted citizen hasn't long since taken to bottling it and putting it on the market as a life-giving elixir. Choice Is Good The visitor to this city is forced to choose between dehydration and a glass of grog from which a stand of mint is not infrequently growing. West Virginians suffer from another frustration, too. When they venture beyond the borders of their own beautiful state, and people say "where you from," a proud native carols "West Virginia." Inevitably, someone in the crowd says "my lands, then you must know my mother's cousin

School Vision

• I have had over 30 years of experience with school children's eyes, and I find that twenty percent of children entering the first grade, have a vision problem.
• At mid-term of the third year in school, forty percent have a vision problem. From then on there is no increase in percentage, but the severity of the problem increases.

Rohde-Snoke Rites Held Saturday

Grace Evangelical and Reformed church of Columbiana was the setting for a lovely wedding late Saturday afternoon, when Miss Betty Ann Rohde, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rohde, Wellington drive, Erie, Pa., was united in marriage with Donald R. Snoke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Snoke, 122 East Railroad street. White gladiolas and ferns banked the bridal altar, which was lighted with white tapers in seven-branch candelabra.

Rev. Waldo J. Bartels, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony at 2:30 in the presence of relatives and friends. Miss Leona Ehrhart at the organ presented a half hour of traditional music preceding the ceremony. During the ceremony, she played "Star Dust," a favorite piece of the bride and groom.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was beautiful in a gown of white eyelet embroidery, with off-the-shoulder neckline, and long pointed sleeves. The full skirt formed a long, sweeping train, and a finger-tip veil cascaded from a Juliet cap fashioned with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums and white gardenias. Her only jewelry was a string of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom.

All Students

Her attendants, all fellow students of herself and the groom in Fenn college, Cleveland, were Miss Carol Roth of North Jackson as maid of honor, and Miss Mary Welch of Wyoming, N. Y., and Miss Robbie Conti of Craf-ton, Pa., as bridesmaids.

George Snoke served his brother as best man. Ushering were Clarence Hyde of Warren, a cousin of the groom, and John Ruby of Columbiana.

The bride presented her attendants with compacts, and the groom presented the men with toiletries. The bride and groom are both senior students in Fenn college. They left on a two week trip to Canada, after which they will live in their newly-furnished apartment on East 75th street, Cleveland, and complete their college courses.

SQUARE HIPS ON WAY, DESIGNER SAYS

By GLORIA YARBROUGH

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 24—(AP)—Hips will be square next season, if designer Howard Greer has his way.

Suits with box hips featured the movie designer's presentation of his fall and winter collection for 1949-50.

The box, a featherbone construction which extends out over the hips, was made into the jacket of the suit. It was also used on dinner and evening jackets.

Extremely high necklines and long sleeves on sheath-like afternoon dresses were an interesting contrast to the boxy hips and the huge puffs and bustles on the evening gowns.

Greer had a couple of the latter with low necklines, which he termed "sex traps." But he's not a complete devotee of the deep plunge. He showed others with conventional and high lines. A slim evening skirt had the usual slit-to-the-knee reversed. Just the back of the leg was visible.

There were no simple, tailored suits. A row of braid around the hem, hipline or bodice gave each a dressed-up look. One suit had a red satin brocade collar.

Bugle beads were used consistently on Greer's evening wear. A cardigan jacket or silk chiffron was solidly embroidered with gold beads. And was worn with both evening and afternoon dresses. Some dresses were just long beaded sheaths.

Strapless gowns with bodices of intertwined satin and lace; gowns with boned bodices of satin petals (which looked like artichokes); and gowns with tulle brocaded puffs over tube skirts are examples of the luxurious evening clothes Greer designed for the coming season.

At this meeting the boys will become acquainted with the requirements for becoming Scouts, so they can be taken into the troop on Sept. 26, which is national Roll Call meeting.

Robert Bennett is the cubmaster and Joseph Needham is the scoutmaster into whose troop the boys will be advancing.

New Controversy Blows Over Color Television

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25—(AP)—A new storm of controversy blew up Wednesday over how near—or how far off—color television may be for the general public.

The Radio Manufacturers association, whose members will make the sets, said it is "probably several years" away.

Chairman Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) of the senate Interstate Commerce committee stated an emphatic opinion that color television "is here now." He indicated a belief that some of those who were pushing for color on the air a little while back were now willing to let the matter stay on the shelf.

Johnson specifically accused the set-makers, who have placed more than 2,000,000 black and white receivers in the hands of the public, of "seeking to slow up the advance of science and throw road blocks in the way of progress." He said they "appear to be motivated by selfish financial reasons."

Throws Out Suggestion
Federal Communications Commissioner Robert F. Jones, who has been plugging for commercial color operations for a long time, threw out the suggestion that all concerned should get going with this development.

Jones made public a letter to Frank Stanton, president of Columbia Broadcasting System, a pioneer in the field of color television experiments. The letter quoted Stanton as having said in a conversation with Jones that "no manufacturing concern would build color television converters for black and white receiving sets or color receiving sets."

The Radio Manufacturers association statement was filed with the FCC as an advance brief for the commission's television hearings scheduled to start here September 26. The hearing will cover proposed new video broadcasting channels, their allocation across the country, and color television—if anyone can come forward with a color system which can be picked up on present receivers through use of a not-too-expensive converting attachment.

Make Statement

On the color question, the set-makers said:

"The industry does not oppose the development of a sound and thoroughly tested system of color television—provided it is available for and superimposed on the 2,000,000 monochrome (black and white) television receivers already sold and available to such receivers now being manufactured and offered to the public.

"The industry has not retarded nor opposed the development of color, but on the contrary has spent many millions of dollars and years of time in experiments and research. These even now are continuing, still in the laboratory and experimental stage, and RMA is of the opinion that even if the commission should authorize commercial television broadcasting it would be probably several years before its initial introduction, through the development, manufacture and sale of transmitters and receivers, would begin.

Even Longer

"It would be even longer before wide public use would be possible."

Senator Johnson, on the other hand, said that a color transmission demonstration of last week between Baltimore and Washington (35 miles), with CBS and Zenith equipment, "Proved beyond question that color television is here now." He expressed his views in a series of letters to -acting FCC Chairman Paul Walker, Commissioner Jones and Stanton.

"Every television set now in the hands of the public can be equipped at a relatively modest cost with a converter or adapter to pick up color signals," said Johnson. "The commission knows that one day it will authorize color; why wait?"

COUPLE FINALLY GETS RID OF ITS FREE DREAM HOME

NEW YORK, Aug. 25—(AP)—Alfred and Edna Birnbaum are rid of the $15,000 "Dream House" that for a while they were afraid they couldn't even give away.

The 30-year-old student veteran and his wife—who won the two-story house for a 50-cent raffle ticket—finally found a buyer something under $1,500—is just a yesterday.

The sale price—announced as fraction of the supposed value of the house, but it's more than the Birnbaums expected.

Agrees to Rental

The buyer, Herbert Braasch, a lawyer, also agreed to pay the accumulated $50 daily rentals on the midtown Manhattan parking lot on which the house stands.

The rental—totaling $1,000 as of today—was one thing that had made the house a mounting liability for the Birnbaums, who could find no way to get the house to a new location—and no new location.

The couple even offered to turn the house back for the price of their raffle ticket to the American Volunteer Women's services from which they won it, but the AVWS didn't want it.

As for the house, Braasch says he bought it on a gamble, and plans to have it dismantled and moved to a lot at Port Washington on Long Island.

SEE BALLOT IDEA AS IMPORTANT IN ANTI-TAFT DRIVE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25—(UP)—Albert Horstman of Dalton, Democratic National committee-man for Ohio, said today the outcome of the move to eliminate straight ticket voting in Ohio will be a big factor in the Democratic drive to beat Sen. Robert A. Taft next year.

"What happens to the Massachusetts ballot proposal is the biggest thing in Ohio politics right now and it should be the key to the whole picture next year," Horstman said.

Under the Massachusetts ballot, a voter can not make a single "X" under a party emblem and thus vote for the party's entire slate of candidates. The voter must make a separate "X" for each candidate.

A strong vote-getter like Gov. Frank J. Lausche, who is expected to seek re-election and head the state Democratic ticket next year, can help the other candidates if straight ticket voting is permitted.

A petition to put the Massachusetts proposal before the voters is now being checked by the Ohio secretary of state's office. The petition was circulated under the direction of George H. Bender, Cuyahoga county Republican chairman and an ardent Taft supporter. If the petition is valid, the issue will go before the voters in the fall.

Horstman readily admitted that "it will be harder to beat Taft" if the Massachusetts ballot is adopted and the Democratic senatorial nominee is required to make a man-to-man race against Taft. He said he favored a move by the Democratic state organization to keep straight ticket voting.

Horstman said he "knew absolutely nothing" about a report that Murray Lincoln, Farm Bureau leader, is President Truman's choice as the Democratic senatorial candidate in Ohio. He said, "things haven't jelled enough" to see who will be the nominee.

Lady Scientist Steps Out On Own, Aids Search For B12 Vitamin Needs

By ROBERT E. GEIGER
(Fourth of Five Articles)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25—(AP)—Dr. Mary Shorb was grinding rats. Little did she dream that soon she would win fame and help crack the mystery of the crimson crystal.

The crimson crystal is vitamin B12, one of the most powerful vitamins known to science.

For 20 years scientists all over the world had been studying raw liver in search of a mysterious element helped patients with pernicious anemia.

At the same time dairy scientists were seeking a mysterious "Factor X" that they had discovered in liver and some other substances.

Also Hunting
And poultry scientists were hunting the equally mysterious animal protein factor (APF) contained in animal proteins and cow manure.

Dr. Shorb went to the government's experimental farms at Beltsville, Md., to help on the Factor X investigation in 1946.

One of the big problems was to find an easy way to measure the amount of the unknown factor in various food substances.

Using rats to test these food substances was slow and expensive. The Beltsville scientists were impatient. This mystery had confronted them almost 15 years, and they wanted to solve it.

Mrs. Shorb is a bacteriologist. The scientists wanted her to try to develop bacteria, which multiply rapidly, as a testing medium. Meanwhile she helped grind rats to measure their fat content as part of other feeding experiments.

Mrs. Shorb tested many bacteria. Finally she placed one strain, Lactobacillus lactis dornier (LLD), on a diet of liver and tomato juice plus other essential nutritional factors. Forty-eight hours later she peered at this culture, growing in test tubes.

The bacteria were doing very well! Mrs. Shorb had what she wanted—bacteria that required liver to live.

Fed Bozens
By feeding dozens of liver and tomato juice combinations, Mrs. Shorb could determine just how much Factor X each contained.

Finally it might be possible to keep reducing the liver preparations to a single factor that would turn out to be Factor X.

About then funds for the bacteriological part of the Beltsville Factor X project were exhausted.

"By this time I was convinced the secret factor in liver that the bacteria needed was the long-sought anti-anemia factor needed by doctors," Dr. Shorb says.

"I was convinced the mystery could be solved, and I wanted to help solve it."

"I went to Maryland university and asked for laboratory space—no salary. They gave me space. The next job was to interest some big company in my project."

"At first nobody seemed interested. Finally a representative of Merck and Company of Rahway, N. J., manufacturing chemists, came to the university. They had been doing work for years with livers. Their representative got me a fellowship to do work at the university."

At the Merck laboratories a team of scientists was turning out a number of liver substances in the hunt for its mysterious nutritional properties. This team was composed of Karl A. Folkers, Edward L. Rickes, Norman

G. Brink, Thomas R. Wood, and Frank R. Koniuszy.

They were having trouble because there was no quick way to test each substance.

Dr. Shorb's bacteria were the answer. Merck sent her the liver substances. In a comparatively few hours she could give them the answer.

After hundreds were tried the electrifying announcement came: This one is it!

The laboratory team had a substance containing red crystals—one millionth of a part of liver!

The bacteria thrived on it. This red crystalline substance was tried on anemia patients.

It brought prompt recovery. The Merck scientists named it Vitamin B12.

Mrs. Shorb was invited to England to tell English scientists about her method of using microbes instead of animals as "guinea pigs." She won two awards from American science organizations for her outstanding work.

One teacher vacancy, in the primary department, yet remains in the Columbiana schools. The school year will begin Tuesday, Sept. 6. Superintendent Richmond says the six new class rooms for the high school will not be ready until a month later.

The Columbiana Youngs will play the Carrollton Eagles at Firestone park Sunday afternoon at 2:30.

Warmer weather has boosted admissions to Firestone park swimming pool to a high figure again. The girls aquacade is set for next Sunday evening at 9:30. Sunday, Sept. 4, will mark the close of the pool season.

James Gaughn of Columbiana is erecting the first Lustron home in Columbiana. The site is adjacent to Firestone park on the west and faces the park lake. Mr. Gaughn was united in marriage in East Liverpool last week with Miss Jaqueline Fouts of that city. They are spending their honeymoon in Venezuela, and will occupy their new home in about a month.

Injured By Fall

Albert L. Vaughn, who lives at the home of Rev. E. H. Musselman, Shorrott road, southwest of North Lima, was injured by a fall shortly after 7 Tuesday evening, and was taken to Salem City hospital. He was making some repairs on the barn, when a decayed timber gave way under him, and he fell about ten feet, alighting on his head. A brain concussion was feared, but his injuries were found to be of a minor nature.

Herman Keiser Squeaks Through To Win Ohio Open Title

Andy Mocsary, Salem Pro Finishes Fifth, Slips Slightly In Last Round

CANTON, Aug. 25—(AP)—Herman Keiser, who had it all to himself up to the final 18 holes of the Ohio Open golf championship, just squeaked through yesterday to win the crown and $1,200 of first money.

But he still managed to wind up the Shady Hollow Country club course six under par.

The Akron pro, now with a Chicago golf club, went into the showdown afternoon play with a brilliant four-stroke edge and eight under par. He carded a respectable 72 in the morning match to keep ahead of Dick Shoemaker, pro at Beechmont Country club, Cleveland. Shoemaker also scored 72.

But then it happened. Keiser just couldn't get his putter working right and registered an inflated 74 in the final round. Only his four-stroke cushion kept Herman from blowing his chance for the title. Shoemaker raced through the course with a 71 for a grand total of 283, just one too many but good for $700. Keiser's total was 282.

The Akron pro went three over par with a bogey five on No. 10 hole and on the 14th, Louis Chiapetta, 52-year-old pro at Sylvania Country club, Toledo, actually drew up to him, all square.

Chiapetta made a birdie three on the 14th while Keiser had to use four strokes. The game then stood Keiser and Chiapetta tied, Shoemaker one behind.

The turning point was on the 15th hole. Keiser put his ball within nesting distance of the cup with a beautiful wedge shot and grabbed a birdie four. Chiapetta's third shot went wide and he stubbed a shot trying to chip in. The Toledo veteran then dragged two strokes behind and that's the way he ended.

Keiser shot the last three in par fours, as did Chiapetta.

Shoemaker, who doesn't enter much tourney play, made a fine fight of it all the way. After a shaky start, which included two bogies, he settled down. He was one over par with 37 for the first nine but marked a brilliant birdie three on the 10th. He then missed three promising birdies, but caught one with a 20-foot putt on the 17th for a three.

Denny Shute of Akron, three-time Ohio Open champ, took fourth with 285 and Andy Mocsary of Salem fifth with 287.

Keiser, who carded 66-70-72-74 on Monday through Wednesday play, carried off $1,200 first-prize money. Shoemaker gained $500 second-place money and Chiapetta's third-place open winnings were $350.

Bob McCall of Youngstown, a Colgate student, shot a 68 on the closing 18 holes to grab off the low amateur prize with a 290 total.

The starting field of 217 had been whittled down to 65 of Ohio's best swingers by the time the 36-hole grind arrived.

DRESS REHEARSAL FOR BIG SHOOT ON AT VANDALIA

By FRITZ HOWELL

VANDALIA, Ohio, Aug. 25—(AP)—The dress rehearsal for trapshooting's premier event is today's feature at the Golden Grand American.

It is a 100-target race known as the preliminary handicap and it pays $1,000 or more to the winner. Last year Ray S. Painter of Lomax, Ill. won it with 99 of 100 from the 19-yard line—but no one has won it twice in 49 years.

Novices are favored in the event—expected to attract some 1500 marksmen—for the hot-shots are placed as far as 25 yards back of the traps from which the clays emerge, while the poorer marksmen are up as close as 16 yards.

Today's fray is run on exactly the same plan, and under the same conditions as tomorrow's outstanding event of trapshooting, the Grand American handicap.

But today's affair lacks the glamor of the big event, just as the fifth race at Louisville isn't in the same class with the Kentucky Derby, although run over the same track.

Only three times in history have perfect scores of 100 been made in the "preliminary" and it has never been won from farther back than 22 yards.

The little fellows settled their championships yesterday as 949 paid in $68,000 in entry fees—greatest in Grand American history—to fight it out for the class championships.

SALEM'S ANDY Mocsary ... Fifth among 217 ...

DEPARTMENT OF CONGRATS

Watching Salem's Andy Mocsary play the final nine holes of the 72-hole Ohio Open Wednesday was a pleasure and Salem can well be proud of the showing the dapper local links expert made among the state's best professionals.

This observer scampers over to Shady Hollow Country club, just outside Massillon, Wednesday afternoon just in time to catch Mocsary, Herman Keiser (the winner) and Louis Chiapetta of Toledo (who finished third) going off the final nine.

Mocsary's play on the last nine was superb, totalling 35 for a one-under-par finish. His game was equal to and superior to both Chiapetta and Keiser all the way through the back nine.

Andy's main trouble throughout the tournament came on the difficult par 5 ninth and par 4 10th holes. He had trouble with both on every round.

The first nine in the final 18 yesterday cost Andy a better position in the final tally, for he soared three above par, a 39, the early afternoon round.

He began his final nine on a bad break, a drive going off to the right into the rough about 235 yards out. His second shot got the ball back on the fairway but only 75 yards ahead. His third was to the left of the low-lying green and he chipped on for a one-putt green and a bogey five.

From then on, Mocsary went like fire. He birdied the No. 11 hole after missing a hole-in-one by unbelievably bad luck. Mocsary's shot on the 110-yard par 3, bounded perfectly up on the green, rolled slowly straight for the cup and struck the pin squarely, stopping just eight or nine inches to the back and left of the pin. It brought a roar from the huge gallery, which included from 500 to 700 people all afternoon.

After the birdie on 11, Mocsary birdied the 510-yard No. 12 with two perfect wood shots and a chip to within seven inches of the cup. He then bogied a difficult 202-yard Par 3 No. 13 and was still even par despite two bogies in four holes.

On No. 14, Mocsary's tremendous 300-yard drive stopped on the green about 20 to 25 feet from the pin. The hole was a par 4, 295-yard affair and Mocsary's putt fell about six inches short of an eagle. He got the birdie three, after outdoing Keiser and Chiapetta on the drive by some 10 to 30 yards. Chiapetta just missed an eagle on the hole, too, his approach hitting the crooked-set pin and dropping off about three inches.

From there on in, Andy was even par. He did No. 15 in the regulation five, the 355-yard 16th in four and the 17th, a 345-yard affair in par four.

On the 18th Andy had another tough break. Up on the green, 400-yards from the tee in two, Andy's 30-foot putt stopped just on the lip of the cup, missing a final birdie. A good wind would have easily aided the ball in, but it hung solid. He took a par four.

Mocsary played the final day's two 18-hole round with Chiapetta and Keiser and naturally, the threesome attracted the largest gallery as Keiser was first, Chiapetta second and Mocsary third in the standings at noon.

Clad in a snappy dark blue shirt, light blue pants and white cap, Mocsary was a hit with the crowd all afternoon. Remarks among the gallery consistently expounded on Andy's smooth, velvet-like swing and his amazingly consistent tee shots. He bested the other two from the tee more often than they could out-do him.

Putting, according to Andy's poorest game, was well above average yesterday. Several short approaches, however, were costly to the Salem pro.

The trio packed tremendous pressure and interest on the back nine, for Chiapetta actually tied Keiser on the No. 13 hole and Mocsary was breathing hot down both their necks. Every stroke seemed all-important and the gallery treated each with the proper awe and respect.

Chiapetta, just as you and I, flopped miserably on the No. 14 hole, completely missing the ball and hitting nothing but earth on a short approach chip just the right of the green. The turf moved the pill about eight inches, but the miscue cost the Toledo pro, some 52-years old, a bogey while Keiser was making an easy birdie. The match between them remained the same until the finish. A costly mistake.

Dick Shoemaker of Cleveland, who finished just a stroke behind Keiser, was not in the Mocsary three-some and as a result the pressure of that match wasn't apparent until the finals were in.

Mocsary didn't win, but he played beautiful golf. One under par for 72-holes is creditable in any tournament. With a couple of breaks, which are vital in any win, the Salem pro would have been up on top. After all, fifth in 217 is nothing to be sneezed at in the Ohio golfing world.

ALL-AMERICA PRO LOOP OPENS WITH HEALTH 'ROBUST'

Professional Loop Expected To Die Long Ago Starts 4th Season

NEW YORK, Aug. 25—(AP)—The All-America Football conference, given small chance of survival by the skeptical when it first blinked at daylight in 1946, tomorrow night starts its fourth season in apparently robust health.

The opening game brings together the Buffalo Bills and the Chicago Hornets at Soldier field, Chicago. Next Sunday the Baltimore Colts and the San Francisco Forty-Niners make their 1949 league debut in a game at San Francisco.

There has been a reorganization of sorts since the close of the 1948 campaign.

O. O. Kessing, a retired Navy rear admiral, succeeded Admiral Jonas H. Ingram as commissioner last January, when two franchises were merged under one ownership and one club is financed by a new group.

Brooklyn, a weak spot last year, has been eliminated by blending its franchise with the New York Yankees.

James C. Thompson, Irvin Rooks and Lee Freeman have taken over the Chicago franchise, with the name of the entry being changed from Rockets to Hornets.

A 42-game schedule has been mapped out for the seven-club league, and efforts have been made to equalize strength of the clubs to insure stern competition.

The league is made up of the Baltimore Colts, Brooklyn-New York Yankees, Buffalo Bills, Chicago Hornets, Cleveland Browns, Los Angeles Oons and San Francisco Forty-Niners.

Roof Caving In On Tribe, Lose 2nd To Nats; Yanks Come To Town For 3 Tilts

CLEVELAND, Aug. 25—(AP)—The roof is caving in on the Cleveland Indians.

Technically, they still are very much in the American league pennant race. Five games behind the New York Yankees, they could cut that lead to two games in the three-game Yankee series beginning tonight.

But the morale of the club now is questionable. Two consecutive losses to the Washington Nationals, who came to town with an 11-game losing streak, may have done terrible things to the team's spirit.

Particularly tragic in the chain of recent events was a similar loss streak by the Yanks to the Detroit Tigers. Given the opportunity of the season to gain huge strides on the Bombers, the Indians folded like a damp wash-rag.

From the Tribe's point of view, the Nats could have chosen all kinds of better moments to demonstrate they "still are in the league." In winning 3 to 2 last night, they looked every bit as sharp and hungry as they did the night before in winning 4 to 2.

They only got seven hits off starter Mike (The Bear) Garcia and two more from Reliever Satchel Paige, but nearly all the blows were delivered at opportune moments. Garci was charged with his fifth loss against eleven wins.

Eddie Yost singled to left center to open the game. Gil Coan liked the same spot and hammered a drive there good for three bases, Yost scoring. Coan also scored as Manager Lou Boudreau threw out Buddy Lewis.

Washington added what proved to be the winning marker in the fourth when Jake Early walked with two out and scored on successive singles by Pitcher Mickey Harris, Yost and Coan.

If Coan and Yost were tacks on the floor of the Tribe's teepee, Harris was a nail in the bubble of Cleveland pennant ambitions.

The former Red Sox lefty, who now has won only three and lost 10 this year, scattered seven Cleveland hits and never was in real danger. Even when the Tribe picked up runs in the sixth and seventh, Harris seemed the master of the situation.

With two out in the sixth, Mickey Vernon doubled and scored on an infield hit by Larry Doby and a solid single by Joe Gordon. Harris stopped the rally by forcing Ken Keltner to fly out.

Bob Kennedy opened the seventh with his seventh homer of the season into the left field stands. Harris set the next three batters down in order.

Vernon collected his third hit, a single, with one out in the eighth. Doby flied out, but when Gordon walked, Washington Manager Joe Kuhel replaced Harris with Veteran Joe Haynes. Haynes forced Pinch Hitter Hal Peck to force Gordon at second on a grounder to short.

The ninth was uneventful except for an error by Dente on pinch hitter Thurman Tucker's grounder with two out. Dale Mitchell then bounced to Haynes to end the game.

Harris, a consistent sore-arm sufferer since a great season with the Red Sox in 1946, started the game hotter than a five dollar revolver.

He struck out Mitchell, Boudreau, and Vernon in the first. Mitchell had fanned only eight times and Boudreau seven until Harris turned on his stuff. The two struck out once before in the same game this season, but never in the same inning.

A crowd of 70,000 is expected to see the first game of the three-game Yankee series tonight. Pitching for Cleveland will be Robert Feller. The Yanks will counter with steady Eddie Lopat.

If the Yankees also are coming to Cleveland to break a losing streak, it may be curtains for the present World Champions.

Bill Veeck denied again last night that he is in the process of selling the Indians, only this time he became more heated.

"Look, I had 12 calls between the hours of one and seven this morning," he told a reporter. "My answer to each was 'no'. I have had calls all afternoon and all evening and the answer is still no. I have not sold the Indians."

Strikes to Spare

The Quaker City bowling league will begin play Sept. 12, it was decided Monday night at a league meeting at the Bowling Center. Twenty-three teams were represented at the session.

Bob Tubbs was elected league president, Paul Shone was named vice president and Paul "Judy" Myers was re-elected secretary.

Several teams are still needed to round out the league.

The teams in the league so far include:

Quaker Steaks (formerly Cobana Electric), Alcos Sash, Campbells General store, Mullins, Sponsellers, Althouse, Tony's Inn, Firestone, Ambets, Gordon Leather, Gondas, Sell Service, Julian Electric.

Bliss, K of P. Brians, Gordon Soft Water, Loudon Motor Sales, Coy Buick, Eagles, Parker Chevrolet, Stop Spot and Moose.

CAUGHT ON QUICKLY his first professional football season, NEW YORK—Bill Swiacki, in son, led the New York Giants in scoring with 60 points last year.

make my official announcement (of candidacy) after the November election.

Disclose Move

The disclosure of labor's attempt to clear the field for Lincoln was made by Joseph D. Keenan, director of the AFL's Labor League for Political Education.
Lincoln, who reportedly was a registered Republican, said recently he is "interested" in making the race, but "prefers" not to engage in a contest for the nomination.

The other avowed candidate for the nomination is White. An inventor of typewriter parts and a mechanical and electrical engineer, he made his first bid in politics three years ago when he ran unsuccessfully for the Republican nomination for governor.

Another possible entry is Ohio Supreme Court Justice Charles B. Zimmerman. A month ago friends of the judge were reported as "sounding out" party circles on his possible candidacy. Zimmerman refused to comment on the movement at the time, but he said he was "very pleased" with the support shown by his friends.
The possibility of Gov. Frank J. Lausche, a strong vote-getter, entering the race also has not been ruled out. Party leaders would be quick to realize that Lausche would be perhaps the strongest candidate they could nominate to oppose Senator Taft, if the governor should decide to enter the race.

One thing is certain. Labor will be exerting its utmost effort to defeat the co-author of the Taft-Hartley labor law. This has been demonstrated during the past few days at the state convention of the Ohio Federation of Labor.
"Beat Taft" has been the rallying slogan, and virtually every speaker has told of grandiose plans under way for labor's campaign against the Cincinnati, who will be seeking his third term.

It's still a long time before primary election rolls around next spring, but the Democrats should not have to look hard to find someone who wants the job of U. S. Senator from Ohio.

taw in the Upper Room chapel at 6:30; and at 7:30 Leslie Pritchard, supply pastor, will lead the Young Adult Fellowship in a discussion on the "Pictures of Christ." Brief character sketches of the disciples in the painting, "The Last Supper" will be given.

Garage Looted

The garage at 151 W. State st. owned by Robert Englert of W. Eighth st. was broken into Tuesday night or Wednesday and a swivel vise and several vases stolen. A door was forced open to gain entrance. Value of the stolen property was placed at $25.

Dr. Barckhoff makes his home with his daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur P. Mullins, also formerly of Salem.

Grass Fire Checked

The fire department extinguished a grass fire on Jones drive at 4:12 p. m. Wednesday. Later firemen put out a fire in the basement of a razed house on E. Second st. where trash was being burned. The call was answered at 6:10 p. m.

Driver Is Fined

on the service have far exceeded advance estimates and, if Britain must tighten her belt she cannot go on spending so much on the service out of general taxation.

The source said Laborite leaders are waiting until the Washington talks are over before deciding whether to call a quick election this year, or carry on until near the end of their five-year term next July.

He disclosed this as Paul G. Hoffman, American head of the European Cooperation Administration, began talks with British officials before the Washington parley Sept. 7.

The informant said the government expects its gold and dollar reserves to sag more than one fourth by Sept. 30—down to $1,200,000,000.

At the end of June Britain was down to her last $1,624,000,000. The treasury's goal had been to keep the reserves at a "safe" margin of $2,000,000,000.

benefit plan paid solely by employers.

Defending the union's social insurance proposals, Latimer said the union does not seek to saddle the industry with a program that might be provided in the future under the federal Social Security program.

He said union contracts are in force for relatively short periods, and changes in social security legislation "will obviously be an occasion for reviewing the terms of such contracts."

"There is no reason to suppose," he added, "that this union will or could maintain the position that its contracts in this field are not affected by changes in the basic statutes. That position would be arbitrary and unreasonable."

Await State Action

One reason previously advanced by the industry for deferring action on the union's social insurance and pension demands is the uncertainty over proposed federal broadening of social insurance legislation, and possibility of similar action by states.

Latimer said the industry, by this reasoning, seeks to postpone action on union security demands "for a period of years."

The board, set up by the President under a 60-day truce plan to avert a general steel strike, is expected to make its recommendations at least five days before the new strike deadline of Sept. 14. The recommendations will not be binding on either side.

PVT. JOHN PIERCE

LISBON, Aug. 25—Services including military rites, will be conducted from St. George's Catholic church at 10 a. m. Saturday for Pvt. John Pierce, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vid Pierce, west of Lisbon.

The body of the veteran killed July 18, 1943, while serving with the 37th Infantry division in the South Pacific, arrived today and was removed to the Eells-Leggett funeral home, where friends may call Friday evening.

On Saturday morning, with military cortege, the body will be taken to St. George's Catholic church for services in charge of Rev. Fr. Alvin Andres. A joint military service by John Welsh post, American Legion, and Wilfred Clunk post, V. F. W., will be conducted at the grave in Lisbon cemetery.

Surviving are the parents, four brothers, William, Frank and Edward Pierce of Lisbon, Anthony of Navarre, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Teka of East Liverpool.

Boyle's Column

By ED CREAGH
(For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK—(AP)—Poor old Brooklyn. Nobody loves her. Except, of course, her 2,910,000 sons and daughters.

And sometimes you can't help wondering about them.

Does that chest-thumping local pride mean that they really love Brooklyn? Or are they merely going through the motions of cherishing a lost cause?

Everybody who doesn't live in Brooklyn laughs at the old girl. And nobody knows why. It's one of those curious facts of life—say "Brooklyn" out loud and people guffaw.

This, by darn, is not fair.

BROOKLYN IS NOT a funny place. It is a sad place. Consider its melancholy rows of somber brick houses, its silently weeping little aillanthus ("A Tree Grows In Brooklyn") shrubs.

It can't be just my imagination that the whistle on the Brighton local drifts wearily into a minor key when the point of no return is reached or the subway voyage from Manhattan.

And there's no sadder sound in all the world than the keening at Ebbetts field when the Dodgers boot one out. You can say many nice things about Brooklyn. It's New York's boomiest borough population-wise. It's bigger (honest, it is) than Philadelphia, Los Angeles or Detroit. It's the borough of churches, of homes.

Brooklyn is still a sad place. You can get almost anything in Brooklyn. You can get a bathtub, a vitamin pill, a wig or an antique pool table straight from the factory. You also can get assassinated—some nervous-fingered alumni of Murder, Inc., are still around.

Brooklyn is s-t-i-l-l a sad place. You can praise Brooklyn's people to the skies, and I'll praise them with you. They're warm-hearted, witty, unconquerable, sentimental—in the good sense of the word—and kind to stray animals, including visiting New Yorkers.

But Brooklyn is still a—

WHAT I THINK I'm trying to say is that Brooklyn gives its citizens too hard a time. It gives them too much grief that they have to unload on each other.

Take, for example, the story about the soda jerk. All soda jerks have a hard time, but in Brooklyn: A little guy breezes into the soda fountain and says, "Gimme a Flatbush special."

"A what!" says the soda jerk. (He's sad already, see?)

"You hoid me," says the little guy. "So I gotta tell ya how to make it? Okay, put in three scoops ice cream—one each chocolate, raspberry, pistachio. Sprinkle wit' powdered walnuts. Then lotsa maple syrup. It's gotta be gooey."

"Then make wit' the whipped cream. Heavy. Then one layer chopped almonds. They gotta be chopped fine. Then crushed strawberries. Then more whipped cream. Then three cherries. Then—"

"Look," screams the soda jerk, "this is Thursday—you got time to come in Saturday for a fitting?"

See what I mean about Brooklyn?

Homes Of Heroes

Caves frequently were considered by primitive peoples as the passages to the underworld and the homes of heroes, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Fraternal Order Upholds Teachers

COLUMBUS, Aug. 25—(AP)—Married women school teachers in Ohio—sometimes ousted from their jobs by local school boards—got a pat on the back yesterday from the Junior Order United American Mechanics.

The fraternal organization adopted a resolution condemning dismissal of married teachers by local boards.

It said many school boards now fire teachers who marry "in spite of the critical shortage of trained and experienced teachers."

"The public school children of Ohio are expected to live in a normal society of married men and women and they should not be forced to submit to the exclusive instruction of male teachers and spinsters," the resolution stated.

Following an endorsement by

Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins (R-Ohio) of Ironton, a member of the Junior Order, delegates gave unanimous approval to a move to shorten the name of the fraternal organization.

The suggested name is "Order of United Americans." If approved, the new title would be adopted in 1953, the order's centennial anniversary year.

Long Sleep Taken In Stride

PEKIN, Ill.—Ruth Miller, 16, went to sleep on Sunday night and didn't awaken until 6 a. m., Tuesday. A physician said the 37-hour slumber was unusual but that the girl didn't suffer any ill effects. She was taken to a hospital for observation, but was released a day later.

Beauty Queens Need Help, Too, To Stay Lovely Always

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON, Aug. 25—(UP)—Maybe this is a trade secret, but beauty queens need a little help, sometimes, to keep lovely. With Barbara Brothers, as pretty a brunette as you'd want to slay an eye at, it's big hips. They didn't look big to me, but that's what the girl said. Barbara, the "Miss Arkansas" this year, dropped into our town on her way to New York where she will "go into training" for the Miss America contest, which will be held in Atlantic City, N. J., in September.

While here she visited a few people from her home state. Among them Secretary of the Treasury John Wesley Snyder, who bills himself from St. Louis, but was born in Jonesboro, Ark., Rep. Brooks Hays and Rep. Wilbur D. Mills. All of them wished her God-speed.

No Hip Comment
None of them had anything to say about her hips. But Barbara (bust 34, waist 23, hips 34) says she knows a beauty concern in New York which will slap off an inch of two of excess without any trouble.

"Not that I'm lazy," said the blue-eyed pretty. "But this lady claims that while you lie on a cot they exercise your muscles. It's supposed to be as good as a 15-mile hike. While they are working on you, you take a nap."

The Arkansas girl said that her silky hair is naturally curly and that she's never had a permanent in her life. She blushed a little when she explained how she keeps it "just right."

"I roll it up on strips of old stocking," she said. "I use a half dozen different colors—anything handy. I look pretty awful when I'm done up that way, but it does the trick."

I don't think Barbara and all of the other cuties who will compete in the big show at Atlantic City know what they're getting into. It's no picnic, even though the scholarship and the fame and the glory and new car are something to work for.

For one thing, there are no dates during the strenuous week. The only time the girls appear in public is when they are properly chaperoned. They can't even talk to a newspaperman over the phone. As a matter of fact, they talk to no men—not even their own fathers.

Rehearse in Morning
They rehearse in the morning. They do the same thing in the afternoon and often in the evening. They put on their pretty duds and ride through a tiring parade that lasts for four or five hours. They smile until the jaws hurt and the wrinkles come.

They don't know the judges, so they smile at everybody. The bare hide part doesn't have much to do with the judging any more. A 33 bust and a fat ankle have as much chance (almost) as a better measurement and a prettier ankle.

The emphasis is heavy on talent. Bebe Shopp, the Miss America of 1948 (from Minnesota) was pretty enough, but her performance on the vibratop caught the ears of the judges.

Barbara sings. She won the "Miss Arkansas" contest by singing "Wonderful Guy." She sang it for me and seemed, as it says in the song, to be as "normal as blueberry pie." She'll have to be that, at least, to be noticed among the bevy of pretties in Atlantic City. She does water colors. They'll have to be good, too. The big beauty league is a tough one.

You're Whiz If You Can Get A-Bomb Data From Film

By FRANK CAREY
WASHINGTON, Aug. 25—(AP)—You're a whiz if you can do anything new on the atomic bomb from the latest pictures on the subject.

The Atomic Energy commission released over the weekend the first pictures of test operations held in the spring of 1948 at AEC's super-secret proving grounds on Eniwetok Atoll in the Marshall Islands.

If you saw them, you'll perhaps agree that they'd make a frustrating study for anyone who might be in the business of trying to swipe A-bomb secrets.

Show Explosion
A series of shot includes pictures illustrating the explosion of at least one of the three bombs set off at Eniwetok. Those were the "improved" designs which the AEC subsequently said demonstrated a "substantial gain in (explosive) energy release" over the models used in New Mexico, Japan and Bikini.

But the explosion shots tell you no more than you may have noted in pictures of previous A-bomb bursts depicted in your newspaper or in the movies.

They're swell shots of the familiar "fireball" and mushroom shaped cloud.

But, you'll look in vain for any evidence of what A-bomb—new style or Model T—looks like, how it's prepared for business, and how it's set off.

The one "new" fact that the pictures add to the AEC's already-stingy disclosures on the Eniwetok tests is this:

At least one of the three bombs was detonated on the top of, or dropped from, some kind of a tower. The first bomb ever exploded—the test bomb exploded in New Mexico in 1945—employed a tower arrangement.

Not For Destruction
But you might have guessed as much from the previous announcement of the AEC that the Eniwetok tests were not designed to determine the destructive effects of atomic weapons on ships or other structures.

And, officials of the Eniwetok party declared shortly after the tests, that nothing was dropped from the air (meaning, presumably, nothing was dropped from an airplane) and that none of the tests were under water.

Presumably, a tower arrangement for detonation was all the AEC needed "to ascertain the energy of explosion of weapons of new design."

The pictures indicate the big job involved in the preparations for and conduct of "operation sandstone"—a business in which a joint task force of some 9,800 military personnel and civilian experts participated.

The pictures, and others, are to be published by the Infantry Journal in a souvenir booklet for the task force members.

Lake Erie - Ohio Canal Under Study

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 25—(UP)—The report on the proposed Lake Erie-Ohio river canal has been returned to district army engineers here for further study, it was announced today.

The board of engineers for rivers and harbors at Washington returned the plans after it reviewed all phases of the proposed canal, including testimony presented at a public hearing here in mid-November.

The board ordered the district engineers to make further studies into the proposed project, including the probable cost and expected benefits should the canal be constructed.

Also included in the additional studies will be consideration of the proposed belt conveyor line between Lake Erie and the Ohio river in relation to the canal project.

The proposed belt conveyor line has become a political "hot potato" in Ohio and a recent meeting of the Ohio legislature turned down a land condemnation proposal in connection with the project.

Q's & A's
Q—What is the nationality of Michael Arlen?
A—Michael Arlen is a pseudonym. The British novelist's name is Dikran Kuyumdjian. He is of Armenian parentage.

Q—What are the abecedarian Psalms?
A—They are the Psalms in which the verses of successive portions are arranged in alphabetical order such as the 119th.

Q—Have scientists established the fact that the temperature can be estimated from the chirps of a cricket?
A—There is a definite relationship between a cricket's chirp and the prevailing temperature. The rate of chirp depends upon the temperature. The rapidity of its chirps is so affected by heat and cold that a formula has been devised for getting the temperature.

TUNNEL TO END BOTTLENECK ON UNION PACIFIC

EVANSTON, Wyo.—One of the most important new holes in the ground in the west is a railroad tunnel being drilled through a mountain 17 miles east of Evanston.

It's the new Aspen tunnel of the Union Pacific Railroad. When completed some time this fall, the tunnel will eliminate the road's worst bottleneck and permit double-track operation of UP's entire Omaha-Salt Lake City main line.

There's already one Aspen tunnel, a single-tracked, 5,941-foot bore completed nearly half a century ago, in 1901.

Operations Slowed
But the old facility isn't enough. All trains on the 1,026-mile mainline, whether streamliners or fast-manifest freights, must be slowed and sent through Aspen by control stations at the end, working on a priority basis. Construction of the new tunnel began in May, 1947, after many months of planning.

A crew of more than 150 men has been on the job for these two years, removing 187,000 cubic yards of sandstone and shale as they dig the 6,700-foot tunnel, 759 feet longer than the old one.

To Cost $8,000,000
More than 53,000 cubic yards of concrete, reinforced with 5,000 tons of steel, are going into the tunnel as lining, put in place by crews working atop an intricate track-mounted form. The concrete is two feet thick.

Union Pacific is spending more than $8,000,000 on the tunnel, which is at an elevation of 7,200 feet and passes under a 7,980-foot spur of the Uintah Mountains.

But the railroad feels that the expenditure will be more than worth while in speeding up its main line operations.

Work on the tunnel was particularly tough last winter, during the west's most severe storms in history. But crews, living in construction huts near the entrances, kept on the job through ice, snow and mud, especially mud.

There's Bear Trouble In U. S. Alaska Air Force Spot

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON (UP)—There's bear trouble in Alaska!

The information comes in a communique to the Civil Aeronautics Administration from Yakutat. The men there have even gone so far as to set up a bear alarm system. They use the phone. Six "long," two shorts and maybe a couple of "dit-dahs" when anybody sees a bruin.

Men grab their guns, call their dogs and off they go!

Most of this information dribbled down by big boat, canoe and plain talk from a man named Burleigh Putnam, who was there and saw it.

Kick Over Lights

Those doggone bears have kicked over many of the border lights along the Yakataga air station. They (the bears) knocked out 23 feet of expensive cable one night.

Putnam said things were pretty bad.

"When a flight is coming in, the ground crew has to doublecheck to see if everyone is all right," he said. "More often than not it isn't because of the bears."

Putnam said that the bears developed a game during which they crawled under a low-slung plane and then stood up. That really fouled things up, he added.

Eventually, the bears switched to another game—that of hose-eating. That little bit of fun calls for chewing up a two-inch rubber hose.

"We were amazed," Putnam said. "Shocked, in fact. Those doggone bears were not midgets. The hose they found so appetizing was seven feet off the ground."

The hose, incidentally, was used for filling oil drums and was pretty important in the operation of aircraft.

Out of Here, Bruin!

The bear situation in Alaska is no laughing matter to the boys who carry our flag and have to live up there. One Air Force man wrote in that his wife shoed one out of the kitchen with a fly-swatter.

"My wife said he didn't look like a very friendly bear," he said.

All of the service personnel—men, women and children—are cautioned to be armed at all times. Guns, clubs or whatever is handy. According to the information received here, when the bear alarm sounds, men grab their guns, call their dogs, and the women and kids hit for the brush or house. The hunt is on!

Mostly the bears are pretty smart, according to the stuff coming back here. Generally they manage to get between the hunter and the quarters for protection. Therefore, there are few direct hits.

One guy wrote in that he sat in a tree for two days waiting for a bear to lick some honey he had planted nearby, but the bear gave him a wide berth.

The boys at Yakataga have their troubles. But they also have their fun. Most of them are camera fans and bears, while they don't make very good eating, make fine pictures.

The Nation Today

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON—By this time you may be getting dizzy trying to follow all the international plans, pacts and programs.

The Marshall plan, the Atlantic pact, arms for Europe, the council of Europe, Western Federation. What do they mean?

They mean—except for western federation, which is something in the future—just this:

The nations of the western world are teaming up in one way or another. Take the plans one by one:

The Marshall plan—This is economic help which the United States is giving to 16 nations to help them recover from the war and stand off Communism.

THEY ARE BRITAIN, France, Western Germany, Netherlands, Italy, Austria, Belgium, Luxembourg, Greece, Norway, Sweden, Trieste, Turkey, Denmark, Iceland, Ireland.

The Atlantic pact—Under this, a military alliance, the following 12 nations agree to go to one another's help if they're attacked: United States, Canada, Belgium, Britain, Luxembourg, France, Netherlands, Denmark, Italy, Iceland, Portugal.

The Arms program—Under this the U.S., if congress approves, will help arm its partners in the Atlantic pact, or some of them, so they could withstand a Russian attack for a while. Congress has begun debate. It's expected to approve.

The Council of Europe—Thirteen European nations are taking part. The council can't really do anything. Its job is limited to debate and recommendations on political, cultural and some economic matters.

If cannot discuss defense problems. That's a job for the Atlantic pact countries. The 13 nations taking part are: Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, Netherlands, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Ireland, Iceland, Luxembourg, Greece, Turkey.

The council is really a parliament of nations, Europe's first. It's the outgrowth of the European unity movement began by Winston Churchill in 1946.

The council can't enforce anything, so its findings on whatever it examines can only be recommendations. That's another way of saying this:

No nation which has joined it has yielded any of its own sov-

Some have told me that I am proposing to put a lever under a rock which has stood in one place for a great many years. Well, then, at my age, I cannot afford to wait too long.

Businessmen must not become frightened and pull in their horns. There is nothing seriously wrong and public confidence is important.

—Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer.

Well, Gloria (McLean) and I have the license now. I guess you'd say that's the "point of no return."

—Actor James Stewart, formerly Hollywood's "most eligible bachelor."

Our people will never be turned away from their socialistic path by any power, no matter from which side it may come, nor can they be shaken or intimidated from firmly persisting in their struggle for the freedom and integrity of their socialistic homeland.

—Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia.

If we can establish in this nation a 75-cents-an-hour minimum wage, we will be putting a stronger floor under the economic structure which, in my opinion, will contribute to avoiding another depression.

—Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin.

Reports Costs To Have Oleo Question On November allot

COLUMBUS—(UP)—The Ohio Association for Colored Oleo reported today that $42,712 was spent in its campaign to put the question before the voters in November.

Ed. D. Schorr, former Republican state chairman and lobbyist for the oleo manufacturers, reported the expenditures along with receipts of $42,830. Schorr filed a statement with the secretary of state showing the association still owed him $3,500 for expenses.

The question of repeal of the Ohio law banning manufacture and sale of colored oleo in the state was first submitted to the legislature by initiative petition and then placed on the November ballot by the same means when the legislature failed to act.

Kin of Gen. Grant Buried In Nearby Deerfield Cemetery

Although it is not generally known in this locality, Rachel Kelley Grant, grandmother of Gen. Ulysses Grant of Civil war fame and president of the United States, who died in 1805, is buried in the Deerfield cemetery.

The stone that marks her grave was erected by the Alliance tent of the Daughters of Union Veterans. Before each Memorial day a representative of the tent places a flag and flowers on her grave.

Noah Grant, grandfather of the general, operated a tannery just west of the village of Deerfield in the first years of the 18th century, according to historians. His son, Jesse, was the father of Gen. Grant, who was born at Point Pleasant in Clermont county.

LET'S EAT!

By GAYNOR MADDOX
From California, where everyone seems to understand and enjoy entertaining, comes this remarkable salad ring. It's perfect for Sunday supper when the thermometer threatens to dull appetites.

Roquefort-Cottage Cheese Salad Ring (Serves 6-8)

Two tablespoons plain, unflavored gelatin, ½ cup cold water, 2 (1-pint) cartons cream-style (large curd) cottage cheese with chives, 1 cup crumbled Roquefort, Blue, or Gorgonzola cheese, ½ cup cream or undiluted evaporated milk, ½ cup Rhine wine, Sauterne, Chablis, or other white table wine or cold water, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, salt to taste, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley.

Softening gelatin in cold water 5 minutes; dissolve over hot water. combine remaining ingredients and beat (preferably with an electric beater) until thoroughly blended; stir in softened gelatin. Pour into a 1½-quart ring mold that has been rinsed with cold water; chill until firm. Unmold on a platter; fill the center of the ring with mixed green salad and surround it with sliced tomatoes, pear or peach halves, slices of pineapple or whatever you like. Serve with French dressing.

CONFIDENCE GAIN
SEEN IN INDUSTRY

Iron Age Believes Business
Upturn Due To Faith,
Rather Than Strike

NEW YORK, Aug. 25—(AP)—Reporting a revival of confidence in some segments of the metalworking industry. The Iron Age, metalworking trade weekly, said today most steel buying now is "based on business confidence rather than strike fears."

The publication said that barring strikes the better tone in the steel market would last for many weeks to come.

"Purchasing agents are back to normal forward buying in most lines," The Iron Age said. "In Chicago, which for the past several months has been the nation's largest steel producing area, mill schedules are generally filled through September, some products are booked solidly through October and one large mill has no cold-rolled sheet space open until December."

Many big refrigerator manufacturers are coming back to capacity output, it reported, although production is better in every appliance item from hot water heaters to gas stoves.

Optimism of appliance and automobile people is not shared generally by the railroads, the trade weekly noted. It said:

"Last week several roads held up orders for substantial tonnage of rails and track supplies scheduled for fourth quarter shipment. For one thing they are worried about the cost of the shorter work week beginning Sept. 1.

"From the standpoint of steel traffic they have cause to worry too. The rate increase to take effect Sept. 1, will add an average of 25 cents a ton to the consumer's steel bill if he gets it by rail."

The Iron Age reported a good chance of a postponement in the

Aug. 30 date by which the report of the presidential fact-finding board in the steel labor dispute is due.

"A two-week postponement is believed to be the least that will be asked," it said. "The strike deadline (Sept. 14) would then have to be put off too."

Steel ingot operations were placed this week at 85 per cent of rated capacity. Scrap prices moved up in several markets, with strength at Pittsburgh and Philadelphia causing a 91-cent gain in The Iron Age steel scrap composite, moving it up to $22.08 a gross ton.

Scratching Hens Give Clue Needed In Science Search For "Factor X"

(Third of Five Articles)
By ROBERT E. GEIGER
WASHINGTON, Aug. 25 — (AP)—Dairy scientists had one of the great medical achievements of the century almost within grasp 17 years ago, but medical scientists finally won the race when they announced they had identified the crimson crystal vitamin B12 in liver.

The work of the farm scientists at the government's experimental farms in Beltsville, Md., underscores the teamwork it took to wrest this secret from nature. Drs. C. A. Cary and A. M. Hartman of the bureau of dairy industry were working on nutrition problems with milk and rats when they discovered the existence of some new food factor. They called it "Factor X."

Select Diet
They selected a diet containing every known essential nutrient in one form or another. Rats failed to develop normally on this diet. Some even died if the protein in the diet was increased beyond 65 per cent.

But if liver and some other foods were added, the rats developed normally. The only conclusion could be that at least one other nutrition factor existed, then unknown to science.

Meanwhile the poultry scientists also faced a mystery. They began to realize there must be some unknown factor in diet that was necessary to produce eggs that hatched well.

A young scientist, John C. Hammond, remembered his father's chickens on the New England farm where he was a boy.

These chickens were fed cracked corn and wheat—which lack some food factors—and yet they almost always produced a 100 per cent hatch.

"There was only one source for other nutrients besides corn and wheat," Hammond says. "That was the manure pile."

"Our hens, like others, spent considerable time vigorously scratching and searching around the edges of this pile."

"It was a simple deduction, that cow manure must contain factors essential for the growth and hatchability of chickens."

Cow Has Tank

The cow has a 60-gallon "fermentation tank" as part of its two stomachs. Scientists knew that the rumen, the first stomach, increases the number of vitamins in the food the cow eats.

Hammond decided the 60-gallon "tank," containing microbes, apparently was part of this vitamin factory. More vitamins were created than the cow could use, the reason, and possibly cows passed off some of these, explaining why barnyard chickens thrived.

"Experiments with growing chickens were set up to test this theory," says Hammond.

"The results greatly exceeded expectations. It became rapidly evident cow manure contained other nutritive factors than those previously known and measured."

"As the series of experiments was continued, it was found that cow manure was equivalent in growth promoting properties to the best grades of fishmeal and superior to most meat scraps that

Presence of bears in the forest added to the dangers which the child faced.

contained known nutritive factors."

Designate Factor

The scientists knew that this mysterious food factor in cow manure probably was contained also in some of the protein foods being fed to chickens. Finally they designated this factor, or factors, in cow manure, and apparently present in feeds containing animal proteins, as the "animal protein factor."

In World War II proteins for livestock feeds—from fish and meat scraps—became scarce and costly. Soybeans were substituted. But unless animal proteins or cow manure also was present chickens didn't thrive.

Meanwhile the medical scientists were attempting to isolate the factor in liver that was effective in treating pernicious anemia. They too suspected there might be some powerful nutrition factor at yet unidentified.

There was. It took a woman to put the pieces of the puzzle together. (Tomorrow: Enter Dr. Mary Sharb.)

JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA) — One of the fastest men with a dollar Mack Sennett ever met was W. C. Fields. Fields was a big Broadway star at the time, but had never appeared on the screen.

Time and again, playing golf with Sennett at the Lakeside Country Club, Fields would say: "Mack, you ought to have me working for you. Money is no object and I'd write, direct, gag, anything."

Finally Sennett told W. C. to drop around at the studio.

Fields arrived, beaming. "Mack," he said, "this is great. What do you want me to do? Remember, I don't care about money."

"Bill," said Sennett, "I think you belong out in front of the camera."

"You mean act?" said Fields in feigned surprise. "Well, in that case," W. C. continued, almost sadly, "we'll have to talk about money and I never act for less than $5000 a week."

"What's more," says Sennett, "he had to have $2500 on Monday and the other $2500 on Wednesday."

"What's the idea?" asked Sennett. "Why not wait till the end of the week?"

"Something might happen," said Fields.

"What could happen?" asked Sennett.

"Oh, anything," said Fields. "Maybe a fire."

TURPIN WAS THRIFTY
THE most frugal star Sennett had was Ben Turpin, the cross-eyed comic.

"He was under yearly contract at $3000 a week and received a good income from an apartment house he owned. But he saved a dollar whenever he could. He'd get up at 5 o'clock to do the janitor work at the apartment house before coming to the studio."

"Ben once blew himself to a new set of parlor furniture. He kept it covered with white cloth jackets. When the doorbell rang Ben would peep through the curtains. If the guests were important he'd whisk the covers from the furniture. If they weren't important, Ben would detour them to the kitchen."

One of the friends Mack Sennett values most is Harold Lloyd, whom he considers the ideal type of citizen. At a recent dinner honoring Lloyd, Sennett told of the time he had sat in his projection room looking at some rushes.

"Who's that chap running around in the scenes wearing horn-rommed glasses?" he asked.

"He's a young fellow we took on the other day," said an assistant.

"What do we pay him?"

"Fifty dollars a week."

"Fifty dollars a week. I can hire actors for that. Fire him."

Some years later, Sennett recalls, Lloyd's weekly income was greater than Sennett's annual profits.
